DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. An examination of this application reveals that applicant is unfamiliar with patent prosecution procedure. While an inventor may prosecute the application, lack of skill in this field usually acts as a liability in affording the maximum protection for the invention disclosed. Applicant is advised to secure the services of a registered patent attorney or agent to prosecute the application, since the value of a patent is largely dependent upon skilled preparation and prosecution. The Office cannot aid in selecting an attorney or agent.

Applicant is advised of the availability of the publication "Attorneys and Agents Registered to Practice Before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office." This publication is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Specification

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

3. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: There are many instances of words missing letters, for example, the last line of page 7, "thre" should be "three" and "xtending" should be "extending". This is just an example of the many occurrences.

Applicant's brief description on page 4 is not a brief description. See the brief description in the more recent patents cited by the examiner. Applicant should incorporate this description in the "Detailed Description".

Applicant has provided a page number on top of each sheet and a different one on the bottom. The examiner will refer to the numbers on the bottom of the sheet when making references.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. Claims 1-3 rejected as failing to define the invention in the manner required by 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph.

The claim(s) are narrative in form and replete with indefinite and functional or operational language. The structure which goes to make up the device must be clearly and positively specified. The structure must be organized and correlated in such a manner as to present a complete operative device. The claim(s) must be in one sentence form only. Note the format of the claims in the patent(s) cited.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1 and 2, as understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 5655315 (Mershon).

Mershon teaches a shoe having structure as claimed including a piston and cylinder (pump 53 includes a finger actuated plunger (piston)) inside the shoe heel (17), a platform (25) that moves upward, and an air pressure line (45). When the shoe is inflated it will levitate the height of the wearer.

7. Claims 1-3, as understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 4873774 (Lafever).

Lafever teaches a shoe having structure as claimed including a piston and cylinder (see lines 2-3 of the abstract) inside the shoe heel (see col. 7, lines 24-25), a platform (22d, this top plate moves upward as the cleats are forced downward) that moves upward, an air pressure line (50,50a) and a manually controlled air tank (60, also see col. 7, lines 15-19. When the chambers are inflated it pushes the cleats though the bottom of the shoe and therefore levitate the shoe upward and produce and therefore levitate the shoe and the wearer. Regarding the device being activated at 135 psi, this would depend on the weight of the wearer. Therefore, inasmuch as there is a plurality of different wearers, there would naturally be one size wearer that would be activated at 135 psi, as understood.

Conclusion

8. Applicant is duly reminded that a complete response must satisfy the requirements of 37 C.F. R. 1.111, including:

-“The reply must present arguments pointing out the specific distinctions believed to render the claims, including any newly presented claims, patentable over any applied references.”

--“A general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references does not comply with the requirements of this section.”

-Moreover, “The prompt development of a clear issue requires that the replies of the applicant meet the objections to and rejections of the claims. Applicant should also specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See MPEP 2163.06” MPEP 714.02. The “disclosure” includes the claims, the specification and the drawings.
